Greenbelt's Great...Mary Linstrom Greenbelt East Development Gets Okay for Gatehouse

by Sandra Lange

What does it take to raise nine children in a GHI house? In the words of Mary Linstrom's children, "Patience. Saintliness. Strong moral values." Jack and Mary Linstrom moved to the 11 court of Ridge Road (3-bedroom brick, no basement, no additions) in 1957 when they had four children and one on the way. They stayed on as four more were born. "Mom had to hang diapers in the attic on rainy days," daughter Libby sighs incredulously.

Eight of Mary Linstrom's nine kids, and most of her 19 grandchildren, and a large number of her friends, gathered on Sunday, March 6, at the Holy Cross Lutheran Church to wish her a very happy 75th birthday. The occasion was much like Mary herself. Warm and simple, with a touch of elegance. Mary eschews paper plates, and insists on silver tongs for her lemon slices. The official words came from Mayor Antoinette Bram who presented her with the city's proclamation. Mary, visibly touched, said thank you.

Al Herling describes the Linstroms as "Greenbelt's answer to the Kennedy family." Many of the elements are there. Large Catholic family, closely knit, bound together by the strong moral fibre of the matriarch. But there is nothing strident or domineering about Mary. She is gentle, soft spoken, affectionate, cognizant of her Kentucky roots.

For 20 years she had her babies and busied herself with their lives. Scouts, PTA meetings, chauffeuring them to art lessons and swimming classes. The oldest, Mary, was born in 1948 and the youngest, David, in 1960. The obvious question everyone asks is, "Didn't you want to move? Didn't you want a bigger house?"

"Of course," she replies, and you know you are probably the hundredth person to ask her this ridiculously silly question. But, she explains, with only a trace of exasperation, "I looked for a house for two years. Every time I found one that we could afford, my husband found something he didn't like about it. Finally, I said to him, 'Jack, you don't want to move, do you? And he said 'no', he didn't. And that was that. Eventually, when David was four, the older ones drifted off to college. 'And they were encouraged to go away to school,' she laughs.

As the years passed, the bunk beds in the dining room were taken down, and the house became more livable. Now there is plenty of room for the children and grandchildren when they visit, hopefully only on a nice day when most of the kids can play outside.

Change

Undoubtedly, Mary's life changed dramatically when her husband died in 1978. Prior to that time, friends describe her personality as quiet and demure, bent on serving the many needs of her family. When Jack died, Mary decided to pursue her own personal interests. She went back to school, and obtained a degree in history from the University of Maryland. She became a community activist, frequently testifying at city council meetings on issues that interested her. She traveled more.

Mary's love of Greenbelt manifested itself in her desire to join those who were forming the Greenbelt Museum as part of the city's celebration of its 50th anniversary in 1987. She has served as president of the Friends of the Greenbelt Museum, and continues on the FOGM board. She helps arrange special exhibits, cleans the closets on occasion, sends out publicity notices, works on archival matters. She is undaunted when 65 Girl Scouts show up for a special tour, and she is the only docent.

Needs of Homeless

She immerses herself in the needs of the homeless. With the Ladies of Charity, she has devoted many hours to her personal ministry. She helps families obtain food stamps. She serves dinner to the homeless at one of the County's shelters. She has been instrumental in working with church groups to GATE's programs during the past year have ranged from interviews with the candidates for City Council; Dorothy Pyles, Greenbelt's Outstanding Citizen of 1993; and Barbara Simon regarding the Halloween vigil of the Mother & Child Statue. Other programs have included the Sunrise Quartet concert and the Mt. Nebo Gospel Choir concert, sponsored by the Greenbelt Arts Center. In the near future, it will air a report on Greenbelt Homes and a speech made recently by Parris Glendening at the February meeting of the Eleanor and Franklin Roosevelt Democratic Club.

Greenbelt Access TV Holds Annual Meeting

by Konrad Herling

The 'State' of GATE will be the focus of the Greenbelt Access Television's annual membership meeting, Thursday, March 24 at 8 p.m. at the Greenbelt Police Station. Members will elect board members and approve the budget and equipment purchases. The balance of the meeting will focus on evaluating GATE's programming and how GATE can improve its coverage of civic and homeowner organizations, as well as recreational, educational and cultural activities. Membership will be able to discuss their likes and dislikes about GATE's programming.

GATE, incorporated in 1986, provides programming on an ongoing basis on both Channels B-10 and B-15. (Since 1990), directed at a variety of audiences. Both Greenbelt's Municipal Cable op-

by Diane Oberg

It was another quiet meeting as the Greenbelt City Council moved quickly through its agenda with a minimum of debate and few divided votes. The agenda included approval for a private developer to install a gatehouse in a city right-of-way, agreement that the city should adopt a noise ordinance, board appointments and approval of a contract and a grant application.

English Country Manor

The developers of English Country Manor were given a right of entry to Space Court, permitting them to install a gatehouse and decorative paving in the right of way, and essentially to treat the road as a private access road. In exchange, the development will be responsible for maintenance costs and liabilities.

English Country Manor, on property previously known as Greenbrook Manor, is a proposed "private community" of 252 condominium apartments and 22 townhouses to be built by the Foundation Real Estate south of Hunting Ridge adjacent to the Beltway.

Noise Ordinance

Council directed staff to prepare legislation adopting the county noise ordinance as a city law. According to City Solicitor Robert Manzi, there is no clear judicial ruling on whether municipal police officers can write tickets for infractions of county law. By adopting the county law, council hopes to give Greenbelt officers more power to deal with excessive noise complaints.

Boards and Committees

Council made the following appointments: Advisory Planning Board — Ann Manheimer and James Maher; Board of Elections — Kathy Oliver Jones; Community Relations Advisory Board — Hopi Auerbach and Kevin Hammett; Park and Recreation Advisory Board — Ann Beier and Alexander Barnes, Jr.; Crime Prevention Committee — Marsha Barrett and Tom Simon; Recycling Advisory Committee — Elizabeth Colager and James E. Lawrence; Arts Advisory Committee — Walter Braun and Andrew Nitz; Senior Citizens Advisory Committee — Linda Milo and Pearl Siegel; Bicycle Task Force — Shelly Rae Gigliotti, George A. Farris, Judith Nelson, Sarah McNaull and Tod Sukontarak.

Open Space

Council approved a list of projects for which it will apply for state Program Open Space funding. Director of Planning and Community Development Celia Wilson reported that the city is unlikely to receive more than $65,000.

County Tricentennial

Robert Crawley, Chairman of the Historic Preservation Commission of Prince Georges County, made a brief presentation to council urging the city to install historic signs in the Center as part of the county's Tricentennial celebration in 1996. He showed slides of the type of sign he recommends — three-sided on a steel stand with laminated plastic over the information. He suggested that the city, at its own expense, place two signs at a cost of roughly $1500 each.

At its last meeting, council approved the appointment of one resident to the County Tricentennial Commission. Betty Allen was later selected for this post.

Parkway Reconstruction

A contract for $12,500 was awarded to United Design Engineers for engineering work related to the reconstruction of the road surface, curb and gutter and sidewalks and for examining strategies for increasing the number of parking spaces. The work is expected to be done during the 1995 fiscal year, which begins July 1.

Bus Route in Jeopardy

Eliminate one of the three bus routes that runs through Greenbelt—that is Metro's latest proposal. The part of the C2 bus route that starts at Roosevelt Center Mall and heads west through University Square, Charlestowne, down Greenbelt Road, through Beltway Plaza, and to the Greenbelt Metro station would be eliminated. This would mean loss of the only direct bus route from the city to the University of Maryland, as well as no bus service west of Southway.

The rest of the route, from the Greenbelt Metro station, through the University of Maryland, and west to the Wheaton Metro station, would be retained.

The Greenbelt City Council will discuss the issue on Monday, March 14.

A public hearing on changes to this and 14 other bus routes in Montgomery County will be held on Thursday, March 24 at 7 p.m. at the Stella B. Werner County Council Building, 100 Maryland Avenue, Rockville. To testify send, at least five days ahead of time, name, address, telephone number, and organization affiliation to: Mr. James Miller, Secretary, Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority, 600 5th St., NW, Washington, D.C. 20001. Each speaker will be limited to five minutes. For information call 202-962-1092.

These changes are at the request of Montgomery County.

Letters to the Editor

"Rehearsal" Was Comedy

I would be remiss as president of the Greenbelt Arts Center if I did not respond to J. L. Chisholm's letter in the News Review of March 3. From the letter, it is quite obvious that J. L. Chisholm did not attend GAC's production of Rehearsal for Murder. If he/she had, he/she would know that this was a comedy, contained a reenactment of what turned out to be an accidental death, and a "staged" shooting in order to get the real murderer to confess.

If we in the arts are not to be permitted to portray any violence, then we cannot consider productions of more than half of Shakespeare's plays, none of Agatha Christie or many other classics. I hope this view is not held by the majority of our citizens. Our play selection committee is very serious about selecting plays that will appeal to the audience we know is most important to us, the people of Greenbelt. If we have offended, we are sorry, but we would hope that those who would be offended had attended the performance, then if they question our decisions, perhaps they would be willing to serve on committees that would select plays in the future.

The Greenbelt Arts Center's mission is and always has been to bring the performing arts to the citizens of Greenbelt and environs. We would hope we have done so in the past and will continue to do so.

ICC Document Available at Library

The Greenbelt Branch Library has received the initial draft of the Inter County Connector Preliminary Needs Assessment, dated February, 1994, from the Maryland Department of Transportation. This document, while not setting out a route for the proposed Inter County Connector will "provide the platform upon which the IOC alternatives are determined in subsequent phases of the study."

Although Greenbelt lies outside the planning area the project may have an impact on traffic and development of the Greenbelt - Beltsville area.

The document is available for reference use at the Reference Information Desk at the Greenbelt Branch Library.

Murder Will Out

I must take issue with the letter written by J. L. Chisholm ("insensitivity") in the March 3 News Review, inasmuch as it purports to describe the recent mystery play, "Rehearsal For Murder," put on by the Greenbelt Arts Center. In the first place, "Rehearsal" was not merely "a play about violence," nor was there any murder by firearms, as the letter seems to imply, on or off stage. The play, in fact, concerned the efforts of a playwright to discover who killed his fiancée. Rather than glorifying killing, this play showed a murderer getting caught and handed over to the police—without violence—through the efforts of the victim's friends. The message? Murder will out, and crime does not pay.

Secondly, murder mysteries have been a staple of literature and the newspapers for a long time. Surely Mr. or Ms. Chisholm does not suggest that a reader of Agatha Christie novels is promoting violence, or that the Washington Post or News Review should not report crime?

I have no idea whether Mr. or Ms. Chisholm has lost a friend or family member to violence; I hope not. However, being a victim of violence does not entitle a person to assume that others' lives have not been affected by similar tragedies. That is an individual's private business, not a subject for insensitive speculation in the local paper.

PG School Board Adopts Snow Make-Up Dates

The Prince Georges County Board of Education adopted a plan at its February 17 meeting to make up school days lost due to the recent string of extremely bad weather.

In addition to using President's Day on Monday, February 21—originally a holiday—the School Board will now use June 14, 15, and 16 to make up the remaining three days.

Under the plan, recommended by Superintendent Edward M. Felegy, if additional cancellations arise, days will be added on June 17, and if needed, during spring break on March 28, 29, 30, and 31.

In addition to the Superintendent's recommendation, the School Board voted to ask the Maryland Department of Education to waive the system from making up classes on January 20 when classes were canceled due to a power emergency affecting the Washington metropolitan area. If the waiver is granted, then students will not have to attend on June 16.

The school system had built into the 1993-94 school year an additional four days in the event of inclement weather or other emergency conditions. The recent rash of ice storms forced the system to use those four snow days as well as four additional days—dropping the system four days below the state-mandated 180-day calendar year for students.

Enclosing Wells Ice Rink Topic at Public Forum

A public forum sponsored by the College Park - Riverdale Transit District Development Area of the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission will be held on Monday, March 14, at 7:30 p.m., on the Parks and Recreation Administration Building Auditorium, 6600 Kenilworth Avenue, Riverdale.

Among topics to be explored will be the possible enclosure of Wells Ice Rink as a year-round skating facility, the only one in Prince Georges County to be available to the public. (The other enclosed rink is used exclusively during the summer season by the Capitals Hockey Team.)

Donation Drop-Off

Residents are encouraged to bring used clothing, coats, towels, old bedding, and small household items to the "donation drop-off" on Saturday, March 12 from 9 am - noon behind city hall. Items should be clean and in good condition. Donations are tax-deductible. Receipts are available upon request. For more information or to arrange a pick-up of large items (mattresses, furniture, etc.), call ARW at 336-6200. Donations will make a difference for many County residents.

Recycling Corner

Recycling at the curb is easy. The yellow container needs to be set out in plain sight for the collectors to see. They will not look for it behind a trash screen or by the side of the house.

People are asked to please mark their address on their yellow container to avoid ownership problems. Remember, only glass bottles and jars, aluminum and steel cans, plastic milk/water jugs and detergent bottles are accepted in the yellow bin. People who need a new container should call Public Works at 474-8004.

Softball Season to Begin

by Dennis Lewis

Attention all girls. The Greenbelt Boys and Girls Club's Softball season is about to begin. Dust off your gloves and dig down in your closets for your softball shoes. The season will be underway in April so be sure to sign-up now. Parents call Mel Scites, the Club's Registrar, to register or for further registration information, at: (H) 441-8689.

Last year, two successful teams were fielded: a 12 and under team and 14 and under team. Success was enjoyed as the two teams posted a combined record of 14 wins and 11 losses. Over 30 girls participated. All girl Softball leagues are fast pitched and it really became challenging to face some of the better pitchers. Fortunately, Greenbelt had some very fine pitchers as well.

This year, the numbers of girls participating is expected to grow. Teams for 12, 14 and 16 and under are expected to be fielded (Girls born in 1978-84). Many, if not all, of last year's coaches are expected to return. The Softball program offers fun, skill development, comradery, and learning to play as a team. It may be a sport that is enjoyed for a lifetime. Be sure you're signed up for the fun! Don't miss the excitement! Registration is on a first-come basis! For additional information, or to volunteer, call Dennis Lewis, the Softball Commissioner, at: (H) 552-9078.

GED Classes to Begin

Greenbelt CARES will begin its spring semester GED program on Tuesday, April 5, and run through Thursday, June 9. GED I will be held from 1-2:30 p.m.; GED II from 2:45-4:15 p.m.

GED I is for students who need review of basic math (addition, subtraction, multiplication, division, fractions, decimals, percentages and word problems) and English grammar skills.

GED II is for students who have successfully completed GED I and/or are ready to learn algebra and geometry, English literature and writing skills, and prepare to take the GED test.

The GED class will be held every Tuesday and Thursday, for 10 weeks, in the Municipal Building Conference Room, 25 Crescent Road. There is no charge for either course, but students are required to purchase a copy of the textbook.

Students do not have to be 16 years of age to take the GED course. They are eligible to take a GED pre-test given at Greenbelt CARES, at no cost. The actual GED test is given by the State of Maryland, not Greenbelt CARES. However, students who are ready to take the test can obtain the application forms from Greenbelt CARES.

Questions and enrollment information regarding either GED I or GED II should be directed to Judy Hering, course instructor, at Greenbelt CARES (311) 345-6660.

Greenbelt CARES

On February 28, Megan Mitchell, program specialist with the Department of Juvenile Services, visited with CARES's staff to conduct a quarterly on-site visit. According to a CARES' spokesperson, Mitchell was impressed with the operation and found everything to be in good order.

On March 3, Wendy Wexler chaired the monthly meeting of the Prince Georges County Foster Care Review Board. The Board reviews cases of children in care of the Department of Social Services and makes recommendations to the Juvenile Court as to which permanency plan is in the child's best interest. CARES notes that there is growing concern over the high case loads that social workers must handle and the impact this has on the level of services that children receive. This high case load is due, in part, to an increased number of children entering the system. Normally there are approximately 20 children entering the system a month. In December 1993 there were three times that number.

Eating and Nutrition W.O.M.E.N.'S Topic

How to adjust one's eating habits to meet changing nutrition requirements will be Mindy Greenside's topic at the Monday, March 14, session of Mishkan Torah's continuing programs for women.

The synagogue Sisterhood's W.O.M.E.N. (Women of Merit Empowerment Network) presents this program as a focus on good nutrition rather than on weight loss. The meeting begins at 8 p.m., but doors open at 7:30 for those who would like to come early to get acquainted. The free series of lectures and discussions is open to all women in Greenbelt. No refreshments are served. There will be no meeting on March 21.

"Philadelphia" Opens Friday At Arts Center Theater

by Hopi Auerbach

"Philadelphia Here I Come" will open this weekend at the Greenbelt Arts Center. The play, by Brian Friel, is about an Irishman who decides to leave his small town with his sweetheart, drinking buddies, former teacher, etc. and head for the United States.

The play is especially fascinating because the main character, "Gar", is portrayed by two actors on stage. One actor (Roger Stone) represents the public Gar whom, people see and hear, and the other actor (Greg Calhoun) represents Gar's private self, who is heard and seen only by Gar and the audience.

Dan Young, the award-winning director, "brought home the gold" for Greenbelt from the 1993 Maryland One-Act Play tournament. Greenbelt's entry, "Among My Souvenirs" was both written and directed by Young, and won five prizes, including Best Original Script, two Best Actor awards, Best Director and Best Production.

Young first fell in love with "Philadelphia Here I Come" when he was living in Ireland in the mid-1980's and landed a role in the play himself. At the same time, he fell in love with an Irish woman named Clare who was also working with the theatre company. Today, Clare is both Dan Young's wife, and the hard-working Assistant Director of the current production.

Self-Esteem Workshop At Holy Cross Church

"Self-Esteem: A Spiritual Matter" is the topic at a workshop to be held on Sunday, March 20, at 1 p.m. at Holy Cross Lutheran Church (6905 Greenbelt Road). Participants will talk about how self-esteem is formed and how it is damaged and about some of the scriptural foundations for understanding self-esteem as a spiritual matter. They will also look at how religion can both contribute to and detract from self-esteem and discover practical things people can do to enhance their feeling about themselves. The public is invited.

The Rev. John Carlson, a pastoral counselor who works in Berwyn, will be leading the workshop, which will include a lecture and small group discussions. The Rev. Carlson is a staff counselor and regional director for the Pastoral Counseling and Consultation Centers of Greater Washington, Inc.

An ordained Presbyterian minister, he has previously served as pastor of Hyattsville Presbyterian Church and has been on the clinical staff of PC and CC since 1988. He has an M.S. degree in pastoral counseling from Loyola College and M. Div. degree from Princeton Theological Seminary.

January, 1944 — The Greenbelt Cooperator saluted its nominees for Men of the Year. Five men were recognized: Councilman Francis J. Lastner for his fighting the curtailment of bus service to Mt. Rainier the previous fall; Dayton Hull for revitalizing the Citizen's Association; John Waldo for reorganizing the local Boy Scout movement; Ben Goldfadden for providing a varied recreation program with limited equipment and resources, and Lt. Art Rysticken for organizing the civilian defense program.

New Technology Aids State Tax Processing

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said a new system using advanced scanning technology, the only one of its kind in the nation used by a revenue agency, has greatly improved the state's service to taxpayers.

By eliminating manual data entry of state tax returns (2.25 million in 1993), said Goldstein, the system has speeded up processing, improved quality control, and expanded services. It is also projected to reduce costs by $16.4 million over the next ten years.

The system scans handwritten as well as typed and computer-generated tax forms and attachments. The 15 scanners, working two shifts, can enter data from 30,000 tax returns and attached schedules and W-2 forms daily. It also allows tax processors to verify information read by the scanners as a quality control check and to correct errors electronically. This should result in significant reductions in delays in issuing refund checks for returns with errors, said Goldstein.

Service will improve in another respect as well: auditors and taxpayer assistance personnel will be able to call the taxpayer's form up on a computer screen to answer queries or generate copies.

Goldstein said the new system is attracting observers from federal, state, local and even foreign governments.

Mary Lindstrom

provide the rent for apartments for homeless families.

Her humanity serves as a constant example to her children. Instead of exchanging presents among themselves this past Christmas, the children decided to contribute money and gifts to a homeless family selected by Mary. "She doesn't just preach charity," daughter Nora asserts, "she lives it."

Daughter Joan recalls that on Halloween while they were growing up, the children were allowed to keep only a portion of the candy they collected. The rest was taken to D. C. Village or some other place to share with others. "You are all very lucky," Mary told her children. "Others don't have as much as you."

"When I had my second child," Nora exclaimed, "I looked around at all the toys and stuff, and called my mother up on the telephone. 'Mom,' I said, 'you are a saint. I apologized for any grief I may have caused her. I know I couldn't do what she has done in raising nine kids.'" Daughter Libby agreed. "I'd be in St. E's," she exclaimed.

Mary prizes her independence. When things got too much for her at home, she used to threaten the kids, saying she was running off to Mexico if they didn't behave. Several years ago, some of the kids tried to reach her by telephone. When two days went by, they started to worry. "Oh, yeah," said one of the daughters, "Mom's gone to Mexico." The others were aghast. She actually went! And without telling most of them! She didn't feel the need to consult them, and have them tell her all the reasons they felt Mexico wouldn't be safe for her, explained Nora.

Bedrock

Christopher, the third child and second son, calls his mother "the bedrock of our lives." He remembers when he was five or six years old, he was playing checkers with the two oldest, Mary and John. He played with them all day, but he couldn't win one game. Frustrated and crying, he went to his mother who was busy making dinner. "I can't win," he bawled. Mary immediately stopped what she was doing. She sat down with him at the checker board. "She made sure I won," he says with obvious admiration. "She always knows what is the right thing to do."

Christopher attributes Mary's calmness in part to the tragedies of her early life. Her father was killed when she was five, and her mother died when she was seven. She and her two sisters were raised by an aunt. This loss, perhaps, accounts for Mary's attitude toward the birth of each child. Christopher says Mary told him, when each child was born, she said good bye to him or her. The child was not hers. He or she was an independent being, hers to care for during a brief moment of its existence, she told Christopher.

Her daughter-in-law Wendy says she's around if we need her, "but she never intrudes on our lives." Says daughter Joan, "She never makes us feel we're responsible for her. Half the time, she's not even there when we call her." Daughter Mary laughingly states that the kids were thinking of getting their mother a beeper and car phone so they can track her down.

Role Model

Joan calls her mother her role model. "I want her to spend time with my daughter teaching her how to treat people." Joan declares that, in spite of their mother's saintliness, the nine kids were not perfect children. Oh no! Particularly, when their dad, the disciplinarian, was away, the kids acted up. A favorite trick of the older children was to wrap a bunk bed mattress around one of the younger ones, tie belts around it, and roll the bundle down the stairs. On one such occasion, after threatening to tell their father, or fly off to Mexico, the children finally calmed down. By the time their father arrived home, they were angels again. "Mom never squealed on us," Joan recounts.

Well," recalls Nora, if things really got bad, say five straight days of torrential rain with nine kids in the house, Dad would send her to Kentucky for awhile for a rest."

Time Off

Sunday morning was Mary's time off, according to Christopher. "Dad would make breakfast. Then, all the kids would pile into the '52 Chevy and drive over to what was Schrom's Airport where Hunting Ridge Condominiums are now). "Dad would race the car up and down the runway. We would press the buttons on the dashboard, pretending we were in an airplane. Then we all went to get ice cream."

Mary is very proud of her children. But, she rarely brags about accomplishments. "Well," she says, "they all pay their bills on time and none of them are in jail." This understatement is characteristic. Her daughter Kathy remembers when they were gathered around the dinner table one night. Mary was talking animatedly to her husband. The youngest, David, started to choke on some carrots. Without a break in her conversation, Mary whacked him on the back, then commented to Jack, "That child will do anything to get attention."

At 75 Mary Lindstrom is a silver-haired, gracious lady. Her family and her friends applaud her for her generous spirit. She is not only a role model for her children and her community, but for humanity.

State Tax Tips

The state comptroller's office has several reminders and tips for residents as they file their Maryland tax returns!

—To have the state complete their return, residents may bring their completed federal return and all W-2 statements to a taxpayer service office (listed on the back of the state tax booklet).

—Remember that the local income tax rate (60% for Prince Georges County) is based upon the taxpayers' place of residence—not their place of employment.

—Because the state will be using data imaging equipment, taxpayers must round all numbers to the nearest dollar and enter their figures between the tick marks in the data boxes.

—A new provision allows married couples to subtract up to $1,200 from their taxable income (including wage, interest, pension and business income). Previously the provision only applied to wages.

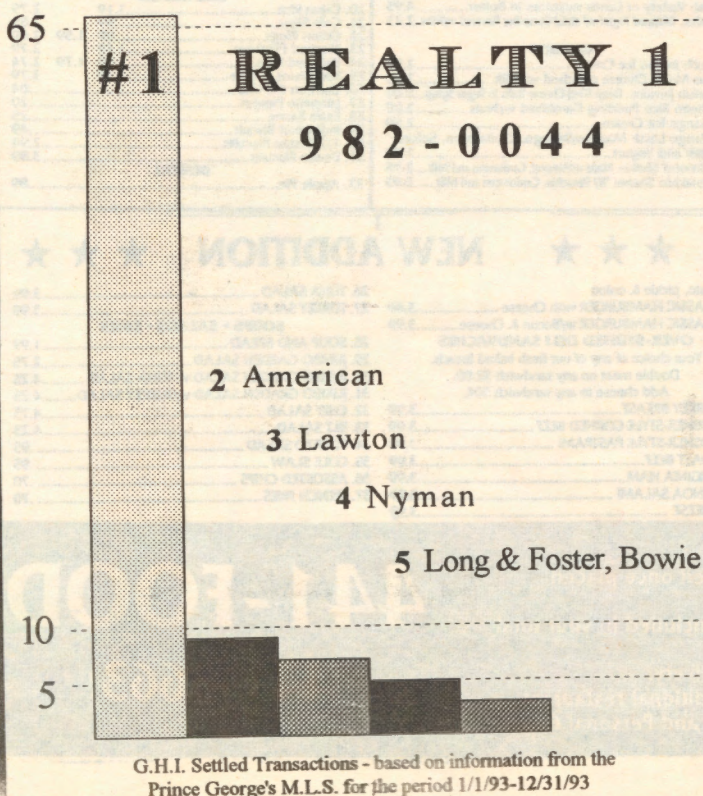

—The maximum pension exclusion has been increased to $13,100. Social Security and Railroad Retirement benefits are still not taxable on the Maryland return.

—Electronic filing is again available. The comptroller's office says that, in 1993, they mailed refund checks just three days, on average, after a valid electronic filing.

—For telephone assistance call 1-800-638-2937.

The Greenbelt Gardener

by Rosie Rhubarb

More signs of spring have burst into bloom. Some of the earliest crocus species have started blooming in spots around the city. The little bright purple crocuses seed themselves so they can form large and pretty patches, such as near 1 Court Northway, 14 Parkway, and several yards along the inner-walkway.

Small yellow and white crocuses have also started blooming too. The witch hazel, winter aconite and snow drops are still blooming. One patch of the latter has bloomed for a month.

If you want to grow some of your plants from seed indoors, you should start them anytime now. Most people consider this too much of a bother, but for the able and the frugal gardener with grow lights or south facing windows it can be done.

Most seeds are started indoors 4-8 weeks before the date of the last frost. That date varies widely in our area from late April to earliest May. But since any frost can kill many plants, I am conservative and consider early May the last frost. So counting backwards from then puts us less than 8 weeks till the last frost. Check the back of the seed packets for details.

The soil is so soaking wet that there's not much yard work that can be done. Remember walking on wet soil compacts it and then makes growing plants, including grass, in that spot difficult if not impossible. With care some clean up jobs can be done. And remember, the GHI spring clean up days are coming later in the month: a good time to get rid of yard debris. Of course you can always call the city's public works (474-8004) and they will pick-up your yard waste.

Fifty Years Ago School Crowding

by James Giese

January, February, 1944 — Although it was the middle of the war and the country was faced with shortages, Greenbelters continued to look for improvements and a future after the war.

Most seriously needed was a new 12-room elementary school and a five-room addition to the high school to accommodate the children living in the defense homes occupied at the beginning of the war. Although funds for the school improvements had been made available, the appropriation was lost because of the one-year lag in defense home construction. The school couldn't be built until there were children to go to it. Hopefully, the school expansions would be done by the opening of school in the fall.

Town Councilman Francis J. Lastner proposed a plan for post-war industrial development along the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. Lastner introduced a resolution to obtain permission from the Federal Public Housing Administration to offer industrial sites after the war (in the area now occupied by the Greenbelt Metro Station).

And confident of victory in the war, the Town Council approved a resolution to create a Victory Day Committee consisting of council members and Greenbelt Legionnaires. It was proposed that there be a gala reception day for the homecoming veterans of the war.

Boys & Girls Club Basketball Teams Ready for Tournament

by Doug Mangum

In this final week of the regular season and with post season tournament seedings on the line, this observer witnessed some exceptional efforts of unselfish teamwork, and energetic defense.

Friday's Games

In Friday's games: the Blue team showed supreme scoring balance with 6 out of 9 players scoring. Oby Ovoss and Alfonzo Webb scored their first baskets and Alex Green led with 12 points. The Red team was led by Vinnie Osborne with 10 points. During the second game the Gray team defeated the Gold team 32-24. The Gold team took the early lead but with a 15-point second quarter the Gray team was ahead 19-12 at half. The second half was played to a virtual stand still. The Gray team had six different players score and were led by Jonathan Dent with a game high 18 points. The Gold team was led by Marcus Wilkin's 15 points, but was equally impressive with 10-21 free throw shooting as a team. Good shooting, guys.

Tuesday's Game

On Tuesday's game the Blue team was paired with the Green team; the two teams hadn't met since the first game of the season which was a 14-12 win for the Green team. With the second, third, and fourth seeds being determined by this game and the Blue team trying to avenge that earlier defeat it was a perfect way to end the season. The Green team with increased confidence and good passes kept it close but trailed 20-13 at the half. The Blue team with good defense and outstanding rebounding limited the Green team to just one shot each possession and with leadership from Alex Green, Alan Williams and Timmy Bates maintained a slim lead into the last minute. With just 28 seconds left to play, Timmy Williams hit a basket to bring the Green team to within two points. This time the clock was on the Blue team's side and the horn sounded with the score Blue 30 and Green 28. All the kids contributed, and most left the Youth Center's court with tired but smiling faces. "This is what the Intramural program is all about," Coach Hayes (Green team) was overheard saying, "I'm really proud of their effort tonight: this was our best game so far this year."

Final standings are as follows: Gray 1st place (7-1; Blue 2nd place (5-3); Gold 3rd place (5-3); Green 4th place (3-5); and Red in 5th place.

Tournament Begins

In the first tournament game Green defeated Red 40-16. The Red team was led by Vinnie Osborne's scoring and several steals. Also of note was Jason Jones' free throw (his first point). The Hayes twins combined for 34 of the team's 40 points. Kristian Benson and Koda Squalls also scored.

The tournament continues with games on Wednesday and Friday at the Greenbelt Youth Center.

For more info call the club's sports line at (202) 310-1066.

In the tournament's second game, the Blue was matched with the Gold. The game see-sawed in the opening minutes with four lead changes and three ties—to end the first quarter in favor of Blue 8-6. Blue then scored six unanswered points to take a 14-6 advantage. Gold closed in to make it 14-10 at the half. Blue again started with an impressive 6-0 run and held Gold to just two free throws to end the third period up 20-12. The final stanza again was a scoring roller coaster with Blue holding their edge 28-18! Costly turnovers, missed opportunities for loose balls, along with some tough bounces did the Gold team in; coupled with a tremendous defensive effort by the Blue team.

Scoring leaders for the Gold: Marcus Wichins (9 points), Steve Cure (6 points), and Dru Baldauf (3 points). Scoring leaders for the Blue: Alex Green (15 points), Alan Williams (9 points), and Timmy Bates (4 points).

Volunteers Needed

Adults with some experience in fundraising or special events planning are being recruited by the Prince Georges County Department of Social Services as volunteers to benefit agency's programs such as the homeless shelters. Challenging opportunities for volunteers, seeking to expand their resume with development and organizational skills.

Details can be obtained by contacting the Prince Georges Voluntary Action Center at 779-9444.

Special Exhibit to Be At Surratt Museum

Historic Surratt House Museum will open for the 1994 season with a special exhibit entitled We Were There: The Black Soldier in the Civil War. Through documents, photographs, and artifacts, the exhibit records the role that blacks played in winning the war, preserving the Union and liberating themselves.

Opening on March 3 and running through May 29, the exhibit will be featured as part of the regular public tour program at Surratt House which is open on Thursdays and Fridays from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. and on Saturdays and Sundays from noon to 4 p.m. There is an admission fee. For information call 868-1121 (TDD 699-2544).

Shamrocks Against Muscular Dystrophy

Area residents can help turn shamrocks into hope and mobility for "Jerry Lewis' Kids" by stopping by their local Drug Emporium this St. Patrick's Day season.

Drug Emporium stores will be selling shamrock cut-outs to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA) through March 17.

As part of the Shamrocks Against Dystrophy program, residents sign or attach business cards to their shamrocks to let everyone know they support MDA. Then Drug Emporium paints the store green with shamrocks.

All proceeds will directly benefit the MDA.

Pitkin Bill to Reduce Landfill Emissions

"Landfills in this state are no longer going to get a regulatory ride when they pollute the air," Delegate Joan D. Pitkin (D-23) stated when she introduced legislation designed to ensure that air pollutants from state landfills will be reduced significantly as soon as possible.

The bill would require Maryland to implement U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) regulations controlling landfill air emissions within nine months of their issuance. Even if EPA fails to act, the bill would subject all new or expanded landfills to state review and a health risk assessment before granting them a permit.

"While we need to continue to encourage recycling, landfills will remain part of the solid waste equation. In Maryland, landfills often are located near high population areas, and we need to protect the public by controlling their air emissions," Pitkin said.

Landfills emit dozens of volatile organic compounds (VOCs), which are ozone-forming and often toxic air pollutants. These compounds include more than 20 cancer-causing agents.

According to EPA, total emissions of VOCs from landfills in 1992 are estimated at 233,000 tons. Maryland has violated federal air emissions standards for ozone in each of the last 20 years; emissions from Maryland landfills in 1992 were about 2.25 tons per day.

EPA estimates that adoption of new standards would add only $3.00 to $5.00 per household per year.

A Walk-through of Recycling Facility Proves Fascinating

by Alex Barnes

Have you ever wondered what the county does with the refuse that it collects from those yellow recycling bins? On the morning of Monday, February 21, a group from Greenbelt toured the Prince Georges County Materials Recycling Facility to find out. Ten of us met in the Greenbelt Lake Parking lot in order to carpool to the facility, which is located near the intersection of the Beltway and Central Avenue off Ritchie Road. The trip was organized by Tracy Vincent, Greenbelt's recycling coordinator; and many of the participants were members of the Recycling Advisory Committee.

The purpose of the Materials Recycling Facility (MRF, pronounced "Murf") is to process the refuse collected from the county's curbside recycling bins. I say "refuse" instead of "recyclables" because not all of what is collected from the bins is actually recyclable. More on this later. Processing the refuse involves receiving it into the facility, sorting it, and then preparing it for shipment. The materials recycled are aluminum cans, steel cans, glass bottles, plastic containers of type 1 and 2 (HDPE and PET), and newspaper. The MRF also accepts aluminum foil. The aluminum foil should be balled up before being put into a recycling bin.

The tour of the MRF was led by Dave Helmecki, a county employee who oversaw the construction of the facility (and a former Greenbelt employee). He said that the facility cost $6.3 million to build and $40 thousand per month to operate. Prince Georges County owns the building and contracts out to New England CRInc. to operate the MRF. The MRF has been operating since October 1993. It operates Monday through Saturday, with sorting starting at 5 a.m. and refuse arriving at 8 a.m. Sorting begins with the previous day's deliveries. Helmecki said that, sorting at a rate of 200 tons of refuse per day, they rarely run out of refuse to sort. After the refuse has been sorted, it is prepared for sale. The materials may be sold to companies located as close as Baltimore, or as far away as Korea.

Helmecki said that they try to employ people from the nearby neighborhoods to work at the MRF. There are 12 sorters, three supervisors, and one office worker. According to Helmecki, the sorters are hired by CRInc. through a hiring agency. Workers are paid between six and seven dollars per hour and receive no benefits. Helmecki said that only one injury has occurred since the MRF began operating.

Tour Description

The tour of the facility started in the receiving, or tipping, area. This room takes up approximately one-third of the MRF's 65 thousand square feet. The delivery trucks drive into the tipping area and dump what they have collected from the recycling bins. The first sorting starts in this room. The trucks put the newspaper in one pile, and what remains in another pile. The remaining refuse is referred to as co-mingled. The MRF sorts the newspaper and co-mingled refuse on alternate days. Monday and Wednesday are co-mingled sort days, Tuesday and Thursday are newspaper sort days, and Friday is clean-up.

Since this was Monday, the co-mingled refuse was being sorted. The pile of co-mingled refuse appeared as a large pool of plastic jugs. Helmecki explained this is because the heavier materials (glass, metal, etc.) sink to the bottom of the pile, and Prince Georges County citizens throw away an enormous number of those plastic jugs. (Unfortunately, many people leave the lids screwed onto these jugs. Helmecki said that it would be helpful if people threw away the screwed-on lids, since they are not recyclable and they make it difficult to crush the containers.) One person works in this room, using a bulldozer to scoop up a load of refuse and drop it onto a conveyor belt.

The conveyor belt moves the refuse into the next room, where the sorting and preparing for shipment is done. This large room takes up about 30 thousand square feet. Occupying most of the room is the sorting machine, which looks like a cross between a Disney theme park ride and a Rube Goldberg invention. The first station on the ride is the presort area. Here, two people remove from the co-mingled refuse what does not belong. Helmecki said this could include plastic bags, laundry baskets, dolls, "... you name it." This reporter saw an iron and a garden hose removed. After the presort, the refuse passes under a magnet, where the ferrous metals, i.e. steel cans, are removed. Helmecki said they can take the metal lids for these cans, but these lids should be put into the cans. Otherwise, the lids move around freely in the delivery trucks and find their way into the newspaper.

After the magnet, the refuse passes over a screening machine. The screening machine shakes the refuse, causing the smaller objects to pass through a screen and leaving the glass, plastic and aluminum containers to continue along the conveyor belt. The next station is an ingenious device for separating glass bottles from the plastic and aluminum containers. A vertical conveyor belt, made up of weights hanging like a beaded curtain, moves the containers down an inclined plane. The glass is heavy enough to pass through the curtain, thereby taking a different route than the lighter plastic and aluminum. The plastic and aluminum containers drop off the inclined plane and onto a horizontal conveyor belt.

The method for separating the plastic and aluminum containers was very fascinating. It was called an Eddy current. At the end of the conveyor belt there were two openings, one further from the end than the other. The plastic containers rolled off the end of the conveyor belt into the first opening. The aluminum cans, on the other hand, appeared to jump from the end of the conveyor belt to the furthest opening.

The glass bottles are moved to a sorting line, where six people sort the glass by color—green, brown and clear. The sorted glass is then crushed to make cullet, and then stored before

City Notes

The Public Works crews completed their tree trimming project at Centerway Island. Hazardous trees along Crescent Road were removed as well as dead trees at the intersection of Parkway and Crescent Road.

The repair of Little League ballfield dugouts continued and ballfield signs were fabricated for Schrom Hills Park. Bicycle lane signs were installed along Ivy Lane.

Snow and ice accumulations were removed from storm drains and replacement signs were fabricated for those knocked down or damaged during the snow and ice storms. Deteriorated paving on Cherrywood Lane was patched.

The recycling Drop-Off Center was cleaned and the underpasses inspected for graffiti. The 1993 Year-End Used Oil and Antifreeze Collection Report of the Maryland Environmental Service shows Greenbelt collected 5,889 gallons of used motor oil and 560 gallons of antifreeze for recycling.

being sold and shipped. The plastic containers go to another sorting station where two people separate the HDPE and PET plastic types. The plastic, steel and aluminum containers are compacted into rectangular bales that are roughly 46"x26"x32" in dimension and held together by wire. Helmecki said that it is actually better if the plastic, steel, and aluminum containers are not crushed prior to arriving at the MRF. He said that the bales are more compact and hold together better when the objects are not pre-crushed.

Now, I wonder what the MRF does with the newspaper?
